Number and title, Quick Answer. Basic Description and Meanings. Suggested Action

1. Journey - Begin.

Our bunny starts an early morning journey on a new path ahead.

Start on your way to something new. Seek out new places, ideas or relationships. Look to the future.

2. Past - Remember.

A family of rabbits are looking through old photographs of places and familiar faces.

Remember where you came from. Look to the past and build on what you know.

3. Present - Be mindful.

A bunny silently meditates in a zen garden, embracing the moment.

Focus on the now. Find your inner calm.

4. Future - Look ahead.

Two bunnies at the edge of the sea watch as a yellow butterfly flits and flutters in the twilight.

Keep your mind on what is to come, and anticipate the unexpected.

5. Guide - Find help.

A traveling bunny is helped along the way by a friendly mountain goat.

Seek out those who can help you to navigate a difficult path or make a tricky decision.

6. Familiar - Be with family.

A family of bunnies reunite, happy to see each other.

Families are created by chance and choosing, look to those people who you are close to for advice, help and encouragement.

7. Unknown - Observe your surroundings.

A rabbit wanders a path through a strange wood with ancient trees towering overhead.

You're entering a new place or space. Look around at where you are now and be open to new things.

8. Forest - Go outside.

A deer and rabbit meet in the woods and gaze at the trees and the living world around them.

Look to the natural world for inspiration and contemplation.

9. Swamp - Look for beauty.

Two rabbits watch fireflies floating above a trail winding through an old swamp.

There is often beauty in unexpected places if you are open to the experience.

10. Valley - Keep going.

A dry valley stretches out before our traveler bunny. Overhead, a rainstorm approaches.

Know that feelings, like the coming storm, are temporary. Put your head down and keep moving forward.

11. Lake - Be still.

Two bunnies in their boat float as lazily as the lily pads on the tranquil water. They enjoy the warm summer air without a care in the world.

Sometimes it's ok to let go and drift on the calm waters. Recharge and don't worry about what comes next.

12. Canyon - Look at the big picture.

In awe, two bunnies gaze down into a deep canyon and the river far below.

Slow down and stop to get a better view. The way ahead may seem impossible, but you need to know where you are before you can move forward.

13. Mountain - Be patient.

A bunny looks out over snow covered peaks of ancient mountains, watching the ever-changing sky and the seasons below.

Mountains have stood over many eons witnessing every change of seasons and time. Be patient, as change will eventually happen.

14. Desert - Work with your environment.

A rabbit proudly shows off its prize cactus, grown in the hot and dry desert sun.

By working with what you have and where you are, you are able to be creative and grow.

15. Crossroads - Trust your intuition.

A traveling rabbit comes to a fork in the road and must make a decision. A mouse offers help.

Rely on your instincts, but don't wait too long! You need to decide which way to go.

16. Sea - Express your feelings.

A bunny in a boat offers a pretty flower to a friendly Mer-rabbit.

Share your feelings and thoughts with those around you. Now is not the time to hold back.

17. Shore - Be ready for change.

Our bunny happily builds a sandcastle on the beach near the slowly rising tide, knowing it will be washed away by the next day.

Things will change and nothing lasts forever. Focus on what you can do now and be ready to let go of the things that won't last.

18. Island - Reach out if you are lonely.

A bunny walks the shore with a prized shell. There is an island just offshore, isolated but only a short distance away by boat.

You can reconnect with others or remain solitary, it's your choice. You always have the option to find help or a friend.

19. Home - Seek comfort.

Our bunnies are getting ready to tuck into a big comforting meal prepared with love.

Find the place where you feel safe, secure and cared for. Do what makes you feel good.

20. Cellar - Prepare

Two rabbits are in the cool root cellar, storing preserves and provisions for the long, dark months ahead.

Do what you can to be ready for what may come. Make your plans to get through tough times ahead and save for a rainy day.

21. Library - Read.

Two bunnies settle down in a comfy chair with a good book, to read and learn together.

Be open to learning, research and revelation. There is much to know if you apply yourself to find the answers.

22. Earth - Plan ahead.

Our clever rabbit turns the soil in its garden, knowing the care it takes today means a bountiful harvest tomorrow.

Your actions today may help or hurt you in the future. Be mindful and act accordingly.

23. Fire - Let it go.

Fox and Rabbit warm themselves by the fire in the dark of night. The fire illuminates the scene, but the smoke obscures the stars.

The energy at hand could easily get out of control and turn into misunderstanding. Like the smoke, let misconceptions and volatile ideas dissipate.

24. Rain - Find shelter.

A heavy rain falls overhead, but a bunny and a cat are safe from the worst of it under a shared umbrella.

Sudden events can be overwhelming without a safe place to hide. Surround yourself with people that can offer help or assistance.

25. Wind - Hold on.

Three rabbits fly a kite on a brisk, windy day. See how carefully they hold the string to make it fly.

Focus on the task at hand and keep doing what you are doing. It may be difficult at first, but persistence will reward you.

26. Stone - Find your balance.

A rabbit carefully navigates stepping stones over a swiftly flowing stream.

Find your balance and move ahead cautiously. Avoid distractions and things that may throw you off your path.

27. Fog - Wait for clarity.

Our bunny, holding a lantern against the approaching night, sees the weather change with the fog rolling in from the sea.

Answers may not reveal themselves right away. If things aren't clear, or easy to read, just be patient and see what happens next.

28. Shadow - Say nothing.

Late in the day, the slowly setting sun casts long shadows of the tree and of our silent bunny rabbit looking into the changing sky.

Keep your secrets and don't show your true self just yet. Things are changing rapidly and the outcome is unclear.

29. Cloud - Relax.

Below a fluffy, slowly drifting cloud, a rabbit stretches out on the grass so it can best observe the sky.

Like the clouds whose shapes shift and change with every wind, it's best to accept that change is inevitable. You need not be stressed over new things.

30. Storm - Expect a change.

Dark clouds loom on the horizon as a bunny grips its umbrella, headed for shelter.

Things are moving quickly which you may not immediately observe. Be prepared to hunker down or weather the unknown.

31. Horizon - Look to the distance.

It is night on the sea, but the sky is clear and starry enough to navigate. Our bunnies set sail in their sturdy craft, anticipating what is ahead.

Take a trip, focus on what is to come. Be forward thinking in your approach.

32. Tree - Be open to ideas.

The first star peeks out in a twilight sky as our bunny pauses under a large tree to consider a passage in its book.

Be open to learning and the wisdom of the ages. Be hungry for new thoughts and ideas and think about the world around you.

33. Fawn - Rest.

A newborn fawn dozes in a copse of trees, watched over by its woodland friends.

Take time to rest and recharge. Step back and let others do the work. Take care of yourself so you can face the world again.

34. Gears - Fix the essentials.

A rabbit and two rats are busy at work in a factory setting, each intently focused on its task, putting everything in working order.

Find out what isn't working and strive to make it better. Sometimes you have to address the little things to make something bigger work.

35. Gold - Be grateful.

A dragon rests on its hoard of gold and precious things, and presents to our bunny a valuable gift.

Appreciate the good things and good fortune that comes your way in life, and reward those who help you along the way.

36. Gravity - Look to nature.

In a warm summer wood, our rabbit contemplates an acorn. Someday, if the acorn is nurtured, it could grow to be as great as those trees in the forest.

Weigh the ideas and problems to try and find their true nature. Try to help things grow naturally the way they are meant to.

37. Child - Begin at the beginning.

A rabbit plays with a baby bunny on a balmy summer afternoon.

Look at the world with a new, fresh perspective. Try to approach problems in a simple, unfettered way.

38. Play - Have fun.

Several rabbits play a ball game, enjoying themselves and one another's company.

Express yourself by doing something fun. Enjoy the moment!

39. Work - Make an effort.

An industrious bunny with the experience and tools is building a new house.

Stay focused on the tasks at hand and continue to work hard. Your endeavors will pay off and reward you in time.

40. Wisdom - Think.

A wise rabbit teaches a youngster about the many stars in the night sky. They describe their names and constellations. Secrets of the universe can be approached with observation and contemplation. Seek out and learn from those who know more.

41. Luck - Take a chance.

Our bunny randomly draws cards from the deck to see what it reveals. Let the randomness of the universe offer help. Win or lose, an answer will present itself.

42. Reason - Question everything.

An industrious bunny rabbit pores over diagrams on paper, using its imagination to repair problems and create new machines with the tools at hand. Use logic and facts to make up your mind. Don't rely on feelings to make your decision, be pragmatic in your approach.

43. Deception - Move on.

A bunny tries its luck at the shell game but is fooled by sleight of hand. Don't trust what you can't see. It's best to walk away and not play the game. Move on to more honest endeavors.

44. Truth - Be honest.

A bunny looks at its garden in the spring, noting the dandelion growing between the hard rocks of the neat flower beds. We may not expect or want to see what is really growing around us. The truth will often find its way into the light where it can't be ignored.

45. Fame - Be humble.

Under bright lights, a commanding musician thrills the cheering crowd. Be grateful for the attention you receive, as it may be insincere or fleeting.

46. Solitary - Look within.

Alone with the majesty of nature, our bunny watches the movement of colorful clouds over the sea. Focus on what is important to you. Get away from distractions and the crowd and make up your own mind.

47. Crowd - Stay together.

Our rabbit and other animals wait for the bus to take them on their busy way. Join with the group and go with the flow. Enjoy the company of others while you get where you're going.

48. Day - Welcome the new.

Our bunny sits on a park bench on a warm spring morning, sharing its breakfast with some random bluebird friends. Approach each new moment with generosity and an open mind. See what the day brings, the light of a new day can be revealing.

49. Night - Sleep on it.

It's late at night. A bunny rabbit checks on its little ones asleep in the bed. The stars are out but everyone is resting safe and snug. It can be hard to see the answers when it's late or you feel overwhelmed. It's best to let go of the events of the day and wait for a new day to illuminate the situation.

50. Dream - Be creative.

Our bunny, having fallen asleep reading fantastic tales, dreams of magical things. Focus on your emotions and let your imagination run wild. Dream up new things and express your creativity.

51. Chaos - Focus on the details.

A group of rabbits watch in delight as many pieces of a jigsaw puzzle are dropped onto a coffee table. Random and discordant ideas and facts can be overwhelming and seem impossible. None of the pieces may make sense or seem to fit. It's only by putting them together can they begin to make sense.

52. Wild - Draw another card.

Our bunny rabbit hops through a forest and looks up to see the overwhelming beauty of the wild woods. Change your perspective and try looking in a new direction. The answers are not always obvious and you may need to seek more information.
